

BERLIN HIT IN FORCE FOR 5TH TIME IN AS MANY NIGHTS AS BIG WAVES OF RAF BOMBERS ROAR OVER THE CAPITAL

Bomb City From Whence Idea Sprang for Battering City Into Submission from the Air—Raiders Sweep In From Different Route Than On Previous Occasions—Fuel Added To Fire

(By International News Service)
Berlin, from whence came the idea of battering a city into submission from the skies, reeled today under the incessant British application of this theory.

For the fifth time in as many nights, several waves of British bombers swept in over the German capital to give the blazing city additional devastating blows. The raid, the sixth within nine days and the fourth saturation assault within that time, was carried out by several waves of the Royal Air Forces' heaviest bombers.

According to German radio reports, Berlin again was hit in force, this time with the raiders sweeping in from a different route than that usually traversed. The Nazis explained this as due to bad weather in the north, necessitating the approach from the southwest. Moreover, the enemy said only light bomb loads could be carried by the Allied airmen due to the longer route.

However, any weight of high explosives dropped on the German capital would leave their imprint. With much of the city obliterated as a result of the other nights' smashing raids, last night's assault was a case of literally adding fuel to the fires.

From Sweden came reports by travelers, arriving from Berlin, that as late as last night fierce fires blazed in the capital as a result of earlier raids.

The latest Berlin operations came immediately after one of the greatest forces of American Flying Fortresses, Liberators and fighters ever gathered smashed Bremen, second largest port of the Reich. The Yank armament downed 56 Nazi fighters, while losing 29 of the Allied heavyweights.

Ground forces of the Germans likewise were severely battered in Russia. In the southern section of White Russia, two converging columns threatened to close on routed Nazi armies pouring headlong toward Minsk, virtually on the Polish border.

After the Red army seized Gomel, vital industrial and rail center, the Soviet troops pressed forward to take other inhabited localities. Meanwhile, in the area southwest of Propkoff, other Russian troops overcame fierce enemy resistance and seized as many as 30 towns.

Nocito Hearing Is Postponed Until Tonight

NESHAMINY FALLS, Nov. 27—The scheduled hearing last night of James Nocito, Franklin street, Bristol, for an alleged attack on a 15-year-old girl here Thursday night, did not take place.

Nocito, it appears, has engaged the services of a lawyer and the postponement of the hearing from last evening until tonight had been requested.

The girl, Betty Crosby, Cypress avenue, appeared at the Miller office and her face showed evidences of having been considerably beaten. There was a large discolored lump on the left side of her head just back of the eye.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Calling The Kettle Black

Washington, Nov. 27. IT IS interesting to note that the fourth-term strategists and New Deal spokesmen have shifted their argument. For a long time their insistence was that the Republican tendency toward isolation made it impossible to trust that party with the conduct of American foreign affairs.

BUT SINCE the passage of the Connally resolution, in which the Moscow agreement was incorporated and for which the Republicans voted with striking solidity, it is pretty well conceded that foreign policy cannot be made an issue in the next campaign. Apparently accepting the fact that the fight will be on domestic administration, the contention now is that the Republicans are unfit for the responsibility of government because they have no party policies and no political courage.

—O—

ASIDE FROM the fact that policies of the party out of power cannot really be crystallized until the party platform is adopted and the party candidate is chosen and that, in this case, Republican policies will be really formed by the man they elect President—if they do elect him—after he becomes President—aside from these things, this indictment comes strangely from an administration which as conspicuously lacks a party policy and a sense of responsibility as this Administration. It is, in fact, difficult to recall any whose defects of this kind have made as horrible a mess of governmental affairs or created a situation more menacing to the people as a whole. Or one that has shown less courage in resisting pressure groups. One does not have to hold any brief for the Repub-

A telegram from the U. S. Navy Department, received last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Sedgwick, of 554 Locust street, informed them that their son, Joseph C. Sedgwick, Jr., S. 2/c, was killed in action in the Pacific Theatre of War.

Seaman Sedgwick, who was 19 years of age, was single.

No more definite details were given in the message than the fact that the young man had met his death in the line of duty during action.

He had been in the service since September, 1942, and was located for a time at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. His most recent base was San Francisco, Cal.

The young man was born in Bristol and had during his boyhood attended Jefferson avenue public school, and had previous to entering the service been employed by the William H. Grundy Co.

His parents, and the following sisters and brothers, survive: Mrs. R. Krause, Lucy, Dorothy, Ethel, Thelma, Arlene, "Jackie," Harry and William Sedgwick, all of Bristol.

Believe Eberhard Safe; He Wrote Letter Nov. 14

Reports that Corp. Charles Eberhard, Jr., is missing in action are believed to be groundless, according to his aunt, Miss Mary Eberhard, 407 Radcliffe street, with whom the young man made his home prior to entering the service. Miss Eberhard today looked over five letters written by her nephew since November 1st, the last missive being written on the 14th of November, less than two weeks ago. The reports circulated were to the effect that word was received six weeks ago that the young man was missing in action.

Corp. Eberhard is located in the South Pacific, he being in a photography division of the U. S. Army Air Corps. He was inducted in June, 1942, states his aunt.

Bristol Must Hustle If Goal Is To Be Reached

Unless the last minute tempo of giving is greatly accelerated in the Bucks County War Fund drive in the Bristol area this Borough will fail by a wide margin of reaching its goal of $16,000, according to the committee in charge of the drive locally.

Some sections of the district have turned in exceptionally fine reports, while others are correspondingly far from good news.

Wesley Spencer, chairman of the drive here, expressed the hope that every citizen will do his utmost to see the goal achieved in Bristol. He pointed out that every penny given will go to cause which are all outstanding . . . to help our own soldiers . . . to help our fighting allies . . . and to give help on our own home front.

"The ~~even~~ business of war is to take life . . . with guns, tanks, bombers, battleships," Spencer said. "And the humanitarian business of democratic civilians is to salvage life and hope . . . with food, clothing, medical supplies, training, morale, advice and financial assistance."

"Paradoxically, under cover of the greatest war the world has ever known, the greatest salvage attempts are being made, unitedly, by many forces for good, organized into the National War Fund, of which the Bucks County War Fund is a part. And if we are to win the peace, it is essential that we continue this salvage of the victims of war, starvation, dispossession, illness and confusion.

"You can give your dollars to Bristol's War Fund drive and, through it, to the National War Fund. Through this great over-all agency serving on all three fronts—the Military . . . United Nations and Home Fronts, your dollars go to seventeen participating war relief services," Spencer concluded.

Some of your dollars will go to the USO for comfort and to entertain our own soldiers.

Some will aid our allies . . . British, Chinese, Dutch, Greek, Poles, Russians, Norwegians, Belgians, French and Yugoslavs. They will buy them food, shelter and medical care. Your money will support hospitals, nurseries and children's homes . . . both abroad and at home.

Some will go to local welfare agencies and help care for those in need in your own community.

Some will lend a helping hand to our Merchant Marine.

Some will bring a bit of "home" to the harried wing legion, the war prisoners of all nations.

Because the National War Fund and the Bucks County War Fund, of which Bristol is a part, have joined forces, you give only once to all these war agencies.

PRACTICE ECONOMY
OF THE HOUSEHOLD
IN EVERYDAY LIFE

By Mary E. Jacoby

(Home Economics Representative)

Do you have any pet economies? Now is the time to put them to use and pass on or exchange ideas with your neighbors. Here are a few suggestions which may be new to some homemakers.

If you like plenty of light, yet sometimes feel that you are paying for light you don't get, check your lamps. A layer of dust on bulbs, diffusing bowls and shades reduce the amount of light. Two 25-watt bulbs don't give as much light as one 40-watt bulb though they cost more to buy and to operate. Turning off lights when not in use helps to keep down the electric bill.

Another economy can come from checking the refrigerator. Layers of ice around the freezing unit make the motor work overtime to keep the food compartment cold.

Keeping the vacuum cleaner in the "pink" of condition is an economy that every homemaker could adopt. A stuffed bag requires more current and puts a strain on the motor. For longer life and greater efficiency, keep the lint and hair pulled off the brush.

Right use and care of any equipment can be an economy. Keeping electric cords from kinking, detaching cords by grasping the plugs, repairing, frayed or broken sections, and preventing sharp bends add to the service and life of cords.

Improving working conditions to protect health and being on the alert for accident hazards will save time, money and discomfort for every family.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

20th Century-Fox has outdone itself!

In "Wintertime," the new Sonja Henie triumph that opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre, the studio that has produced most of the screen's outstanding musical hits—including the recent "Hello, Frisco, Hello" and "Coney Island"—has surpassed all of its previous achievements. It's safe to say there'll be only one "Wintertime" this year!

In addition to the incomparable Sonja who, for the first time, dances as well as skates, the film features Jack Oakie, Cesar Romero, Carole Landis, S. Z. Sakall and Cornel Wilde.

Filmed in cooperation with the United States Marine Corps, "Salute to the Marines" stars Wallace Beery in a two-listed, action-packed wartime story that is as inspiring as Old Glory itself. The photoplay is at the Grand Theatre and will be there three days, starting Sunday.

RITZ THEATRE

Crowded with as many laugh-filled situations as there are strangers in war-time Washington, "The More the Merrier" opened yesterday at the Ritz Theatre. Co-starring Jean Arthur, Joel McCrea and Charles Coburn, the delightful new comedy is one of the lightest, gayest, timeliest pictures we've seen this season.

The last war . . . remember?

Silk shirts!

Pink ones, green ones, blue ones with white stripes—millions of them.

And silk stockings for the women—on legs that had never felt anything but cotton before.

Wrist watches . . . rings . . . bracelets . . . hand-tailored suits . . . ten-dollar felt hats . . . better, larger, sweller apartments.

Then it happened.

1918 and the Armistice. The war boom petered out. In factory after factory the wheels turned slower—slower—then stopped.

The cuffs on the silk shirts were frayed, and the colors faded . . . and the silk stockings were gone, and the rings and watches were in pawn shops . . . and people moved back where they'd come from. But . . .

"Don't let it get you down, Bud! You can't hold this country back. God's country! Don't sell America short—why, with our natural resources—and the way we work . . ."

So we started on the second lap, on the same circular track.

1923-1929. Prosperity. Nothing ever like it before in the world. Stocks—up 50 points in a week—thousands, millions—billions of dollars of profits—on paper.

Bootleggers . . . parties . . . automobiles . . . more silk shirts . . . new suits . . . radios, refrigerators, real estate, furniture, diamond rings, boats, shoes, hats . . .

Then—1929 and Crash again!

"Sorry, Mr. Jones . . . more margin, or we'll have to sell you out . . . Dear Mr. Jones . . . unless you send us a check to cover two unpaid installments on your furniture . . . Dear Sir . . . in the hands of our attorneys unless . . . mortgages unpaid . . . worry . . . worry . . . sorry, Jones, better look around for a new job . . . no help wanted . . ."

Remember?

Bread lines . . . the Bonus Army . . . ex-soldiers selling apples on street corners . . . "brother, can you spare a dime?" . . . stocks going down—down—business failures . . . suicides . . . Relief . . . N. R. A. . . . W. P. A. . . . C. C. C. . . . and no jobs yet, and shoes run down at the heels. And the kids—undernourished—crying a lot—and "the lost generation . . ."

How come? How did we get that way—again? Why did it happen here, when it couldn't happen here?

Well, let's look back—let's see how it did happen.

Bonds weren't good enough for us. Savings banks weren't exciting as brokers' offices.

We were trying to compress our lives—to squeeze the juice of three score years and ten into a decade. We wanted, for next to nothing, the things our fathers had worked and sweated and saved for.

My wife's clothes had to be better, smarter—more expensive than your wife's—and her jewelry, too.

You spent a thousand dollars for your car? So what? I'm spending thirteen hundred for mine. (On time.)

And say—looka my new radio! Twenty-two tubes, three loud speakers, record changer, home recorder and three short-wave bands!

The old one? Oh, I traded it in when I bought the new one—and the new refrigerator, and the dining room furniture—slick, eh?—"modern," they call it.

How much? What's the difference?—Twenty-four payments of eighty dollars instead of sixty-five! I'll never miss it . . .

Hold on a minute, brother . . .

Did we "miss it" in the early "thirties?" Did we "miss it" when some fifteen million men walked the streets . . . camped out—lived in huts and shacks and lean-tos? Did we "miss it" while brave women scrubbed and scoured and patched and mended until their finger tips were raw, their hands rough—and their hearts dull with the pain of abandoned hopes?

Hold on once more . . .

This time chances are we won't bounce back again! Many people now realize what a close shave it was the last time . . . how desperately near we were to chaos and national ruin.

MUST we come down with another crash? MUST we ignore, not one, nor two, nor three—but the dozens of lessons taught us by history? MUST we head straight along the road-to-ruin we took last time?

It's what's beginning to happen, right here—now—in our country.

People are making more money than they ever did before and spending it. Spending it faster than they ever did before.

The old "short-life-but-a-merry-one" story is back with us. But how merry IS it?

Where's the money coming from—"prosperity?" No . . . war. From the Business of Death we've been forced into. From things made to kill people. From things made to kill other people so they won't kill us.

Win, lose, or draw, the war will end some day. No war has lasted forever.

Then what?

The same war factory wheels will again slow down and stop. Men will walk out of factories and hear the gates grind closed behind them—many of them to stay closed.

And maybe the green grass will grow between the stones of factory courtyards before the men will come back to work again . . . slowly . . . a few at a time.

The same as the last time? And the time before that?

Well, it shouldn't be, but it will be even worse—unless we use our common sense now!

There's no special Providence watching over this country, in spite of all our songs and slogans.

We're people—just like any other people.

Luckier, yes. Our land is fairer—endowed with more riches than any other lands. And we've worked hard—or used to, anyway. Nobody knows how much is left of American spirit and guts—yet. We think it's greater than before. The Japs and the Germans will find that out.

But listen, Mister . . .

Don't fool yourself! The time's going to come when you'll need those dollars you're throwing around now.

If hard times catch up with you, it isn't that night-club proprietor who's going to return the money you spent in his place—no, not any part of it!

And all the unnecessary gimmicks and gadgets you think you need now won't be worth a dime on the dollar then.

And when your pockets are empty it won't be because you'll be taking money out of them—but because no money will be going into them.

How about those bright kids of yours? Will they have to work instead of going to high school or college?

And those beautiful rings you bought your wife? Supposing you lose your job . . . how long can you last before pawning those baubles, for a fraction of what they cost you?

So look . . .

When you want to spend money or buy something new, just imagine you are spending your next to-the-last dollar.

Don't ask how happy you'd be with what you get for your money—but whether you'd be miserable without it.

That's the only test. Otherwise you're just kidding yourself. Lighting matches to ten dollar bills you're going to need—sure some day.

What? Oh, you're making more money? Then save more—don't spend more!

Because the money we all save now will play a tremendous part in the after-war economy of our country. The money we save now will be a cushion of buying power—those sorely-needed dollars to "start things up again" in our civilian economy—to keep us from national bankruptcy until the wheels start moving again. The dollars you waste now may be the dollars you'll need then—yes, perhaps even for such matter-of-fact things as bread and milk and meat.

Why do you suppose your government urges you to save? It's perfectly simple—to ward off disaster. To make sure that the crash that "couldn't happen here" doesn't happen again. So that possible (if not probable) after-war depression doesn't find you at the tail end of a bread line fifteen-million-people-long. So that a war we win by fighting won't be lost by waste.

Remember, we're at war! Dollars are needed just as much as men—to back up those men—to give your boy, your brother, or your pal the stuff he needs to beat the Axis, and come back alive.

Money wasted on foolish luxuries won't do this. Once spent, it's gone, and neither you nor the boys fighting for you are better off for the spending.

But the dollars you save in War Bonds or your savings account, will help Uncle Sam buy the guns, the tanks, the ships and the planes we must have to survive and win.

And those savings will guarantee your future—the financial future of you, your family, and the boys who are fighting for us all. Nobody can tell you what will happen to you.

You can.

Make a plan and stick to it. Guarantee your own future. So many dollars every payday into War Bonds and into your savings account.

Then, come hell or high water, follow your plan. Protect your family. Build up reserves. Create a stock of money and make it grow. Your money. Your Bonds. Your protection.

And the bigger the stock of savings you create, the better off you'll be—buy the good things you will want when the war is over—that new car, that refrigerator and radio you can't get now—things that make American life the best in the world.

Meanwhile, helping yourself your savings money will go to work helping your country, to provide fighting equipment for your boys to lick the Axis—homes for war workers—roads, railroad equipment and ships to transport war materials from the factory to the front. Your dollars working for Victory and Peace!

So, when you save wisely, you're helping your country and yourself at the same time.

Honest, now . . .

Could you ask for anything better? . . .

Fixing School Budget Is Very Important

Directors would be simplified if more attention were given to careful preparation of the school budget. He reminded the directors that the proper bonding of the tax collectors, the treasurer and school board secretaries was very important. Many school boards have found to their sorrow that they were not amply protected.

Walter J. Solly presented the County Board Distinguished Service Awards at Newtown, while Howard Kooker, Jr., presented the awards at Quakertown.

A technicolor movie on Patrick Henry and a recent U. S. Army film, "What Happens at a Reception Center?" were featured on the program.

County Superintendent Charles H. Boehm and the other members of the County Staff, Dr. Ruth Fedder, Dr. Genevieve Bowen and Paul L. Gruber answered many questions concerning school policies, curriculum problems and audio-visual surveys.

In response to questions, Dr. Ruth Fedder announced that Special Clinics will be held in Bucks County on December 7th, 8th and 9th; over 300 pupils in the past two years were given special psychological tests; requests for such tests are sent in often received; and some school boards have excluded pupils of very low intelligence.

Dr. Genevieve Bowen, county curriculum director and supervisor, in response to questions in her field said that, upon request she will give reading tests to elementary pupils.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

FOR either Thanksgiving dinner or the Sunday following, the poultry course, in most instances, will probably be roast chicken. Fortunately indeed will be the household which gazes upon a centerpiece of turkey, for the supply is less than half that of last year. There is a good supply of medium-sized roast chickens, a few geese and a few western ducks.

Veal is still the most plentiful of the meats, according to the A & P Service for Homemakers. Beef and lamb continue scarce. Ration points for all cuts of pork have been reduced two points, but both the fresh and smoked varieties are coming into the market more slowly than had been expected.

There is a good choice of vegetables but not much fruit. Apples, pears and grapes are to be had, but are far from plentiful, and the same is true of cranberries. Those who like avocados are in luck, for they are in good supply. Potatoes and southern yams are plentiful, also Florida beans and Virginia spinach, cauliflower and cabbage.

The suggested Thanksgiving dinner below gives a choice of turkey or chicken, with suitable accompaniments for either.

The social studies text books are not required for 4th grade; and classrooms painted in light colors are not only more cheerful, but better for reading.

Questions submitted to Paul Gruber, another supervisor, gave the following answers: pupils of various income levels have secured clinical treatment at the Abington Hospital; all audiometers and telebinoculars are in use; tentative outlines on arithmetic materials have been distributed; the science text books are not essential in the first four grades.

One of the questions submitted to Superintendent Boehm concerned the validity of the per capita tax. This question grew out of a statement in a metropolitan newspaper to the effect that only property holders pay school taxes. He said this applied only to Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Second, third and fourth class districts may levy a per capita tax. Another question concerned the merits of district-owned school buses. Superintendent indicated that after a six or seven year study has been completed more conclusive data will be available on the relative costs of district-owned buses as compared with privately-owned buses. Warwick Township secured school bus transportation at the cheapest rate by operating its own bus and by using the driver as a school janitor. Other questions brought these answers: 75% of school property is covered by fire insurance, cost of fire insurance for past three years averaged from 2.7 mills per dollar to 3.4 mills; the salaries of school bus drivers are up nearly 30% in the past three years; school districts may have school police appointed by the court; Bucks County districts have benefited by using county contracts with beginning teachers; elementary schools are still excusing farm children at noon, the salute to the flag is practiced in every school district; high school tuition rates are higher this year; and new teachers for 1944-45 should be secured as soon as possible.

The memorial program conducted by County Superintendent was in memory of the following school directors: Charles Black of Nockamixon Township; Walter Bishop of Doylestown Township; Hannah Pickering of Middletown Township; George Gore of Newtown Township; Frank Steward of Warwick Township; and Louisa B. Kerr of Doylestown Borough. A service flag was displayed with five stars for the following directors in the service: Lt. Robert W. Shaw, Lt. Command-

Mrs. Vernon Howell and Miss Donecker Entertain

Miss Anita Zug, Jackson street, was the guest of honor at a bridal shower, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Vernon Howell, Edgely. The shower was given by Mrs. Howell and Miss Dorothy Donecker, Philadelphia, her attendants-to-be. When Miss Zug arrived at the Howell home, she was escorted to the living room where the guests were assembled. She was completely surprised. The room was decorated with white streamers and white wedding bells in the center. Under the bells, gifts were arranged on the floor and on top of the gifts was a large doll dressed as a bride. Games were followed by refreshments. The dining room was attractive with pink streamers which extended from the corners to the center of the room, thence to the center of the table where a miniature bride and groom stood. Favors were small bridesmaids dressed in pink carrying silver bouquets.

The invited guests were: the Misses Jean Rosser, Jean Roberts, Anita Zug, Helen Repella; Mrs. S. (By the Rev. James R. Gailey)

Pastor

Almighty God, the Father of mercies, we pause in the rush of life to confess before Thee our sense of insufficiency and our realization of need. So often as we are engrossed in the things of the world we fail to remember Thee. So often as we busy ourselves with our secular occupations we forget that all things come from Thee and that without Thee we are helpless. Yet, as we face the perplexities of the present we realize that they are beyond us, and that a power superior to that of man must be active in the world in order to establish it upon firm foundations. Bring the world to thy knees, O God, that Thy Spirit might pervade the very atmosphere and every lip confess Thee Lord. In the Name of Christ, Amen.

"TRAIL TOWN"

by Ernest Haycox

Begins Sunday in The Record

Dan Mitchell was the law—the only law—in Rivez Bend, the most sinful spot west of the Missouri. Dan ruled dangerously . . . struggled desperately to maintain a balance between the lawless and the respectable elements of the wild, roaring town.

Here is a surging, full-blooded story of the old West with its gunplay, gambling and crooked politics. It has been acclaimed the greatest of all the famous Haycox stories, and Dan Mitchell is considered the best of the Haycox fighting men.

"TRAIL TOWN" presents a pulsating portrait of a man of action—trapped in a deadly crossfire of violence and intrigue—fighting for his life and for the love of a high-spirited woman! Be sure to read every thrilling installment of this new Sunday Record serial.

Were the Stars

LANGHORNE, Nov. 27.—Bristol High and the Langhorne High girls hockey teams played to a scoreless deadlock Wednesday afternoon on the Langhorne field.

Despite the cold weather which made the holding of the clubs very difficult both elevens played a fine brand of ball with both goalies being kept busy all afternoon as many attempts were made to score. Both goalies, E. Miller, Langhorne, and Audrey George, Bristol, had several "saves" to their credit.

Outstanding for the Langhorne team were Ahlum and Thompson while Theresa Cahill and Sophie Bielecki played best for Bristol.

It was the third game of the season for Bristol. Incidentally, all the games ended in a scoreless verdict. Two of the games were with Bensalem. Another game which was to be played with Langhorne has been cancelled because of the lateness of the season.

Due to the transportation problem, games with other schools in Lower Bucks County were not scheduled this season.

The fast-stepping basketball team which represents Fleetwings in the Eastern Aircraft Basketball Association continued its winning streak Tuesday night in defeating Kellett Autogiro at the Germantown YMCA by a score of 58 to 38.

The Arrows' playing was characterized by as beautiful an example of teamwork as has been seen to date in the Association. Every player on the winning club scored in a game which featured passing rather than sensational shooting. It was difficult to try to name any one player as being the star of the game, each basketballer carrying out his assignment splendidly.

Devon Smith, former star at Western Michigan State College, paced the scoring with 15 points, closely followed by Mike Bloom and Steve Zarembo who garnered 14 tallies each.

Addressing about 35 persons at the meeting of the Warrington Lions Club at the Warrington Inn, Tuesday evening, Albert J. Williams, chief of the electrical division of the research department of a well-known firm engaged in the manufacture of electrical instruments in Philadelphia, said modern science is playing a prominent part in this nation's war effort.

Procured through Joseph Barnes and George E. Beggs, the guest speaker conducted a number of experiments to show the members what science is doing in an attempt to win the war.

The war, according to Mr. Williams, was responsible for the development of a large number of instruments which are used to combat and destroy enemy craft, including airplanes and seagoing vessels.

Grand Jury Favors Purchase of Ground

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 27.—Purchase of 11 acres of land adjoining the Bucks County Prison belonging to the Worthington estate, was recommended this week in the report of the Grand Jury of the November term of criminal court. A portion of this land has been loaned to the county for a number of years by the late Harry J. Worthington for farm work.

The Grand Jury returned 37 true bills and three others were ignored.

After visiting the Bucks County Prison which they found to be in a very clean and sanitary condition the Grand Jury complimented the prison officials on the 1943 canning project.

The report gives the Bucks County Home a clean bill of health, but recommends the installation of an elevator in the main building for the convenience of the inmates. It was also recommended that the roof of the steer barn be repaired, that the implement shed roof be painted, that a new American flag be secured for the grounds.

But you can save gas in other ways...

Gas is a war fuel! We must conserve it wherever possible, to cooperate with our government in saving fuel, manpower, materials and transportation for war needs.

If yours is a gas-heated home, there are many ways you can promote house-heating efficiency, thus reducing your use of gas. Insulation, weatherstripping, storm doors and windows are all recommended fuel-savers. Make a thorough check of your property now, to find where heat losses occur... then take steps to correct faulty conditions.

The Administration Building was found to be in good condition. The Grand Jury reports having found the Court House "overcrowded in all offices." They report the lighting facilities in the Court House as extremely poor throughout the building. A new floor for the Sheriff's office was also recommended. The Grand Jury recommended the immediate painting of all of the walls and ceilings of all offices and court rooms.

The report was signed by Robert T. Kirkbride, Morrisville, foreman, and Susanne S. Comly, Morrisville, secretary.

This drive, formed one arm of the relentless Russian pincers, the other moving forward along the lower reaches of the Beresina River.

Both Russian columns are driving to cut the Minsk-Gomel line, probably at Zhiobin where it is intersected by the Leningrad-Odessa Railway. These lines constitute the main escape routes open to Nazi forces in the area.

In Italy, the British Eighth Army threatened to overwhelm the Nazi garrison at Castel di Sangro at any moment. The veteran troops of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery held heights dominating the enemy stronghold on the central sector of the trans-peninsular line, and their big guns were expected to break the German hold.

As a matter of fact, the Paris radio predicted new developments are imminent, and said an artillery barrage preparatory to an offensive already has begun. Both the Eighth and Fifth armies have been heavily reinforced and British warships are off the west coast at Gaeta, the Nazi-controlled broadcast said.

The same station also predicted new Allied combined operations in the Mediterranean, declaring that huge British naval forces are concentrating at Gibraltar.

The Japs, too, were hard-pressed. Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that tough Australian troops overcame difficult mountain and jungle terrain, as well as stubborn enemy resistance, to take Sattelberg in New Guinea. After nine days of fighting, the Aussies stormed a 2,400-foot ridge to take the base, which stood in the way of their advance toward Wewak and Madang. They also occupied four adjoining villages.

Fifth Army Beats Off Two Bitter Counter-Attacks

Algiers.—The Anglo-American Fifth Army beat off two bitter German counter-attacks by which the Nazis hoped to dislodge the Allies from positions threatening their winter defense line. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

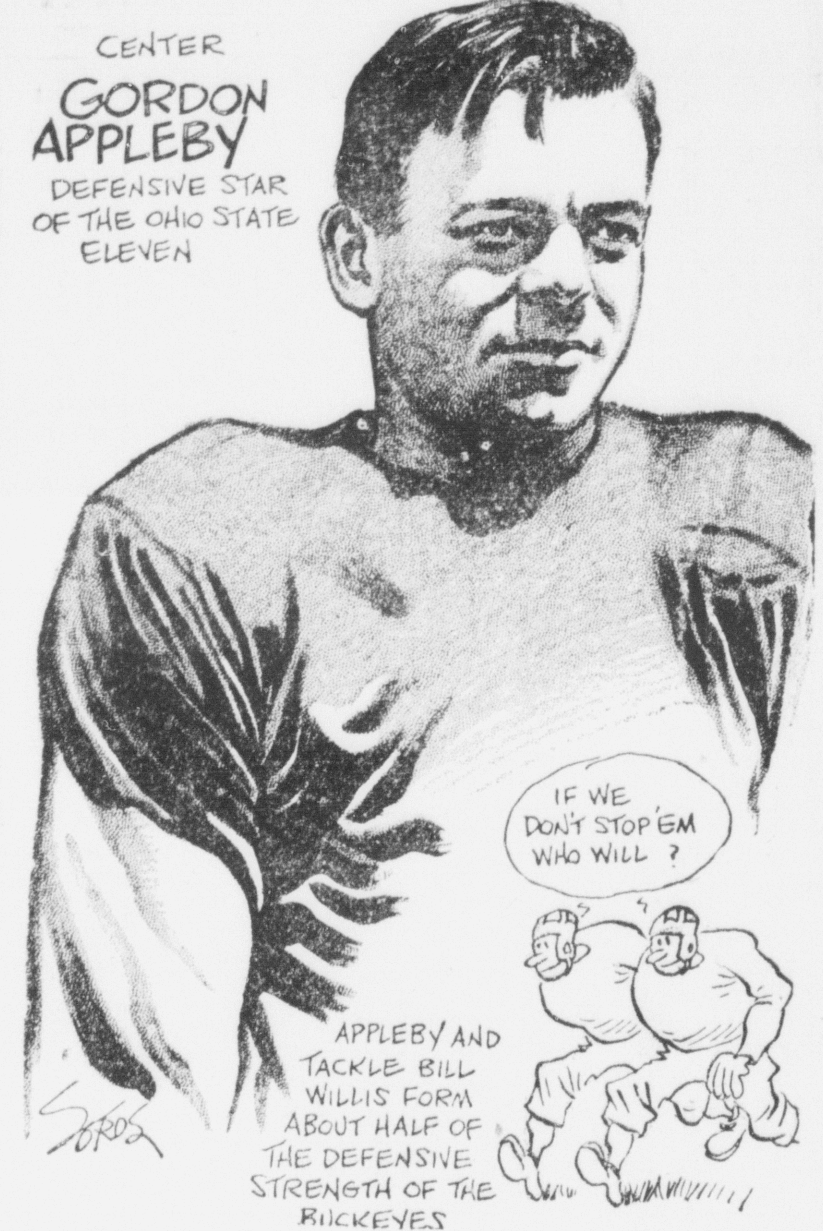

The British Eighth Army on the eastern half of the battlefield extended and improved its bridgehead across the Sangro River near the Adriatic coast. Other Eighth Army activity involved sharp patrol clashes along the upper reaches of the Sangro, north of Castel Di Sangro. It is believed that town now is an empty shell.

The German launched the two counterattacks in the American-held sector west of Venafro and the Yanks repulsed both and inflicted heavy losses on the Nazis.

American artillery then hammered down a third formation of Nazis before they could get their attack started. The Yanks threw heavy concentrations of shellfire against the Nazi infantry seeking to deploy northwest of Mignano.

A slight improvement in the weather was accompanied by increased activity along the entire Fifth Army front covering the western half of the peninsula.
